DENMARK UNVEILS BURQA BAN

Denmark has passed a law banning burqa and niqab face veils worn by some Muslim women.

Parliament voted in favor of the law—75 to 30, and it went into effect on August 1. Violators could be fined 1,000 kroner (about $125 U.S.).

People will still be allowed to cover their faces at events like costume parties or during cold winter months, and headscarves, turbans, and Jewish skull caps will be permitted. Police are to be tasked with deciding if a person's face is "too covered," Politico.com reported.

Denmark's Justice Minister, Soren Pape Poulsen, said covering one's face was "disrespectful" to others and "incompatible with the values in Danish society," according to the Guardian.

EXCERPT FROM "THE JEFFRIE'S JOURNAL"

Supervisor Kevin Jeffries

Mystery Meat with Bathtub Cheese? Pretty much any day of the week, you can drive through some of our rural communities and find a number of roadside food vendors operating from the back of pickup trucks and cars. Some even go to the trouble of setting up tents, tables, lighting and chairs.

What most of them don't do is obtain permits and inspections from the health department to make sure the food you are eating is cooked, still hot (or frozen) and safe for humans. If you are a brick and mortar restaurant or a licensed food truck that plays by the all rules, you are inspected regularly, and these overnight, uninspected black market mystery meat wagons undermine your ability to stay in business.

The county's Department of Environmental Health that inspects all the legitimate businesses is now conducting surprise inspections, citations (and some seizures) of the fly-by-night operators. So while some of you may not want to know where that package of mystery meat came from, or think bathtub cheese or home-brewed alcohol sold out of someone's trunk is a good idea, do a little favor for the legitimate businessman and woman who work every day to provide you with a safe meal, and next time you see a road side vendor (with no posted permits) operating from his/her personal vehicle, please just keep driving.

Your stomach will thank you later.

SWEDEN'S VIOLENT TURN

Sweden's days of generosity may be a thing of the past, now that new statistics show the nation is saddled with a rising number of Islamic State recruits, and with them bombings and hand grenade attacks.

Gang-related gun murders increased from 4 per year in the early 1990's to around 40 last year. That places Sweden squarely above the Western European average. Social unrest, including attacks on first responders and riots, has become routine. The number of Swedes who were victims of crimes such as fraud and sexual offenses jumped to the highest level on record last year.

MORE WOMEN RUNNING THIS YEAR

Newsmax, August 2018, page 32.

More women than ever will be running in Senate races in the upcoming midterms, a CNN analysis of reports by Ballotpedia concludes. There are 49 to 54 women running, depending on whether third-party candidates are included. A full 22 percent of 2018 candidates are women, a percentage not seen since 1994, when the share came close to 19 percent.

There are 32 Democratic Senate candidates and 22 Republicans.

One hotly contested seat is the race in Arizona, where there has never been a woman in the Senate. Rep. Martha McSally hopes to grab the GOP primary spot and she told CNN now’s the time. “I think we need more women in office for sure,” she said.

Arizona held its primary election in August. Martha McSally won the Republican nomination over Kelli Ward and Sheriff Joe Arpaio. McSally will face Democrat nominee Kyrsten Sinema in November.

9/11 DO NOT FORGET

Where were you and what were you doing at 8:45 a.m. on September 11, 2001? With the world as it is today, one may need reminded of the 9/11 tragedy.

On September 11, 2001, 19 militants associated with the Islamic extremist group al-Qaeda hijacked four airplanes and carried out suicide attacks against targets in the United States. Almost 3,000 people were killed during the 9/11 terrorist attacks, which triggered major U.S. initiatives to combat terrorism and defined the presidency of George W. Bush.

At 8:45 a.m. on a clear Tuesday morning, an American Airlines Boeing 767 loaded with 20,000 gallons of jet fuel crashed into the north tower of the World Trade Center.

As the evacuation of the tower and its twin got underway, television cameras broadcasted live images of what initially appeared to be a freak accident. Then, 18 minutes after the first plane hit, a second appeared out of the sky and sliced into the south tower. The U.S. was under attack.

As millions watched the events unfolding in New York, American Airlines Flight 77 circled over downtown Washington, DC before crashing into the west side of the Pentagon military headquarters at 9:45 a.m. Jet fuel from the Boeing 757 caused a devastating inferno that led to the structural collapse of a portion of the giant concrete building, headquarters of the Department of Defense.

A fourth California-bound plane was hijacked about 40 minutes after leaving an airport in New Jersey. Because the plane had been delayed, passengers on board learned of events in New York and Washington via cell phone and airfone calls to the ground. Knowing that the aircraft was not returning to an airport as the hijackers claimed, a group of passengers and flight attendants planned an insurrection.

They fought the four hijackers and are suspected to have attached the cockpit with a fire extinguisher. The plane then flipped and sped toward the ground at upwards of 500 miles per hour crashing in a rural field killing 44 passengers.

Some of the terrorists had lived in the U.S. for more than a year and had taken flying lessons at American commercial flight schools. Others had slipped into the country in the months prior to September 11.
